The Atlantic Monthly for December completes an excellent volume and year of this standard magazine. Like the previous numbers, it comprises a judicious mingling of admirable stories, papers on practical subjects, essays of biographical and historic interest, criticism, and poetry. It opens with "Thirty-Seven Hundred and Fifty-Eight," a paper full of curious conjectures in regard to civilization, science, and religion when the Christian era is twice as old as now. "Kansas Farmers and Illinois Dairymen" presents some plain facts which will interest all who think of migrating to Kansas or Illinois. "Some of Us: A Southwestern Sketch" is a capital description of some typical Southern characters. Col. Waring contributes a useful paper on "The National Board of Health," stating what powers it has, what it has done and aims to do, and pointing out the injustice of sundry criticisms it has received. Hon. W. A. Phillips, of Kansas, describes "Three Interviews with John Brown." Clara Barnes Martin, under the title "The Greatest Novelist's Work for Freedom," shows Turgenef's noble record as a lover and champoin of liberty. George Washington Greene gives "Reminiscences of George Grote," the great historian of Greece. Richard Grant White treats of "English Manners." An anonymous paper of no little interest is "The Man who was to have Assassinated Napoleon." The Contributors' Club is even brighter than usual, having a short essay on "The Burden of Charity Fair Journals," evidently by Mark Twain; and the reviews of new books are full, as usual.

The Atlantic Monthly for 1880 promises to better than ever,—having serial stories by Mr. Howells, Mr. James, and Mr. Aldrich, three of the brightst and most attractive American story writers now living, and all its other departments equally well filled.

On last Sunday, in Cleveland, a former Presbyterian Minister was ordained to the ministry of the Episcopal Church; and on Tuesday of this week, in the city of Cincinnati, two former Baptist ministers were ordained the ministry of the same church.—Ex.

Mrs. Spriggle—A Southwestern Sketch.

[From the December Atlantic.]

Not a week later Mrs. Spriggle presented herself again at Briarley. The black dress had suffered visibly from contact with muddy roads on the way. The black sun-bonnet was limper and rustier than ever. Their wearer dropped into a chair, and crossed her hands dejectedly on her knees.

"Reckon ye done heered 'bout my gal bein' married," she said, without raising her eyes from the floor.

"Yes. I was much surprised to hear it," the mistress replied. "She must be very young."

"Yes, she is tol'able young, is sis,—goin' on fifteen. But law, I was married at thirteen,—I was so!"

She looked up quickly, but catching an expression of disapproval on the mistress's face she cast her eyes again upon the floor.

"The wust on it is," continued she, "he ain't got a cent, nor he can't make one, nuther.,'

"Why did you let your daughter take him, then?"

"Well, he come a-dawdlin' round sis, an' he'd allus a powder-horn a-hanging' on to him; so I just 'lowed he'd a gun, and could keep sis in coons an' possums. She's a master-hand at fresh meat, is my gal! He scraped up two dollars somewhar to get the license with an' to pay the preacher: but I don't reckon he'll ever arn any more."

"Not earn any more!" cried the mistress incredulously. "What is the matter that he can't work and support your daughter properly?"

Mrs. Spriggle pushed back her bonnet and crossed her knees before she answered. Then she shook her head mournfully.

"I never found out," she said, "till they was done married, as how he'd nary gun at all,—nothin' but a powder-horn. And," with a gesture of disgust, "he's the powerfullest no-account critter ye ever did see."

"You must feel badly to let your daughter go away with such a man."

"Oh, law, she ain't gone! Did ye think he had ary house to put her in? Why, don't ye know? They's a-livin' to home with me."

This amazing piece of intelligence nearly took away the mistress's breath. Before she could reply, Mrs. Spriggle continued,—

"What's did's did! 'Tain't no use fussin', I reckon."

"But how could you let her marry him without knowing more about him than you did?"

"Well, it's flyin' in the face o' Providence not to take up with a husband when he comes along." She glanced up appealingly as she spoke. "Gals can't get a good husband every day,—they can't so!"

"But," said the mistress, "it seems he is not a good husband."

Mrs. Spriggle's face, which had brightened slightly, took a gloomier hue, and she pulled the black bonnet down over it.

"That's so," she assented, tearfully. "He's wuss than nary husband. That's so, I do say. But," as she rose to go, "mebbe he can ketch rabbits, if he knowed how to make a trap, now! I must be gettin' along."

A father the other day wishing to form an alliance between his stupid son and a fine young lady of his acquaintance, sent him to her with the following note:

"Dear Madam—Allow me to present my Bill for your acceptance."

The lady sent the spooney back to his father with the following reply:

"Dear Madan."—Your Bill is vetoed."—Ex

GENERAL GRANT AROUND THE WORLD

BY HON. J. T. HEADLEY.

Hubbard Bros. Publishers, Philadelphia, Pa.

This book, of nearly 800 pages, is printed on fine toned paper, in clear, large type, and is a handsome specimen of typography. The author, Hon. J. T. Headly, whose ability and popularity are well known, has most skilfully used his superior facilities and qualifications in the preparation of this volume. The work is really two volumes in one. The first part gives the life of General Grant gliding rapidly from his boyhood and early manhood, but dwelling at length on the scenes and incidents of his military life; his career since the war to the close of his presidential term, which are familiar to every one, furnishes the material for the closing chapter of this portion of the work. In the second part of the work, the author takes you around the world with the ex-President, points out everything of interest in the principal cities and countries visited, and enumerates all the scenes and incidents which have made this journey so memorable, and a source of pride to every American. The two hundred illustrations with which the work abounds render the descriptions really photographic. For the sources of his information, the author makes graceful acknowledgment to the correspondence of J. R. Young, published in the New York Herald; but as the time spent in many of the historic points visited was necessarily brief and largely taken up in social enjoyments, the superior knowledge of the author, himself a great traveler, enables him to supply that information which the public naturally are desirous of knowing about the social characteristics of the people and countries visited. The work concludes with the arrival and reception of Gen. Grant in San Francisco, and one of the most striking pictures in the work is the passage of the "City of Tokio" within the Golden Gate, nearing our Pacific metropolis.

The price of this work is fixed at the low figure of $3.50, cloth edition, while that of J. R. Young is $12.00. Those who desire it can have the "Travels" without the biographical sketch for $3.00 a volume in cloth. Rev. W. S. Fort, of 1111 9th Street, n. w., well and favorably known in this community, is canvassing for the work, and will call on any of our readers and give them an opportunity of examining the work, whether it is their intention to purchase or not.

Result of Republican Rule.

[From the Athens (Ga.) Blade.]

In 1873, we had a panic that shook the very foundation of our country financially; and from that time to the present, the men who possessed capital, have suffered as well as laborers. Many men who were our leading financiers, became involved and in a day were lost to the world—ruined forever. Many became despondent because of having lost most of their property in an honest attempt to make a living, and ceased to do business altogether.

Laborers have lived on a much smaller quantity of food than before the panic, and at times it seemed that soul and body must separate.

These dark days have passed, and we now find ourselves once more upon the main of prosperity. Gold is pouring into our country from the East, and our products are being transported to the land of need. Corn, flour and bacon are going up in value. The merchant gets more money for almost every thing he sells than he has received for years.

When we consider the fact that the laborer could scarcely live on the present wages, when provisions were cheaper, must we not conclude that it would be both human and just to raise the price paid to poor men, who work hard from the rising of the sun to the setting of the same, for their labor? We ask that the poor men of our country be given more for their work: we do this in the name of right, and believe our friends will see and do the right.

Facts about the Human Body.

The skin contains more than 2,000,000 openings, which are the outlets of an equal number of sweat glands. The human skeleton constists of more than 200 distinct bones. An amount of blood equal to the whole quantity in the body passes through the heart once every minute. The full capacity of the lungs is about 320 cubit inches. About two-thirds of a pint of air is inhaled and exhaled at each breath in ordinary respiration. The stomach daily produces nine pounds of gastric juice for digestion of food; its capacity is about five pints. There are more than 500 separate muscles in the body, with an equal number of nerves and blood vessels. The weight of the heart is from eight to twelve ounces. It beats 100,000 times in twenty-four hours. Each perspiratory duct is one-fouth of an inch in length, of the whole about nine miles. The average man takes five and one-half pounds of food and drink each day, which amounts to one ton of solid and liquid nourishment annually. A man breathes eighteen times a minute, and 3,000 cubic feet, or about 375 hogsheads of air per hour.—Ex.

Remarkable Coolness.

A number of medical students in Indianapolis recently undertook to make a victim of a professional "resurrectionist." They told him that they had secured a body asked him to remove it from its hidingplace. The supposed corpse in the bag was a live medical student. The students pointed out the spot where the bag was concealed, and the professional threw the bag over his shoulder and set out for the college. The corpse, with no knowledge of his whereabouts, straightened out just as his bearer was crossing the canal, With rare presence of mind the intended victim of the joke heaved his burden over the bridge into the water and calmly walked on. Had not the companions of his unfortunate follow rushed to his rescue there would have been a "sure enough" corpse in the party.—Ex.

An Educated Ministry Highly Necessary.

[From the Standard Bearer.]

* * * * ½

But we should remember that 16 years have greatly altared the condition of things among our people and the audiences of to-day are vastly different from the congregations that first listened to the preaching of the Delaware Conference. Then, the minister without education was fully on a par with his people; today, how few of the ministry can occupy the true position of a pastor, and be a leader and exemplar to his people in everything?

We think the Conference in view of the great work that lies before it, should insist upon the applicant for admission, preparing himself for the work. If he does know enough and says he is called to preach, let him STUDY, and we believe he will study if he is really called. This is the true test and and no other is needed.

That Color Prejudice.

[Western Echo, Utica, N. Y.]

The colored man elected by the Republicans of Cincinnati to the legislature of that State ran considerably behind his ticket. He is said to be a man of ability and education—superior, probably, to the average member of a State legislature; but the hue of his skin was against him even in the Republican party. When so distinguished a representative of the African race as Frederick Douglass ran for the Assembly in the city of Rochester, he also, we believe, ran behind his ticket and was defeated. There are a great many in the Republican party of to-day who would not have been Republicans in 1855, before that party had secured control of the loaves and fishes, and when Republicanism was a matter of principle.

The American Negro.

The colored people of the United States are a component part of the nation. No matter what their history, no matter what their superficial color and physical outlines, they are constitutionally, citizens of the United States. They are citizens by nativity and by constitutional law. On this simple fact are based all their legitimate claims for political freedom and equality before the law. And everything belonging to the colored man by virtue of his fully recognized citizenship, may be fully accorded without disturbing any of the social rights within the radius of the domestic sphere. Such rights are sacred. They cannot be invaded, neither by State legislation nor by Congressional enactments. They are personal matters, not to be legislatured upon, but to be regulated by personal tastes and individual predilections. So the plea that the colored man is seeking intermarriage with the whites, when he or his friends for him demand an enjoyment of his inalienable rights in common with the white citizen, is only a dodge from the real issue. In matters of human rights, let justic be done though the heavens fall.—Ex.

Et Ceteras of Dress and Fashion.

New gray gloves are blue tinted.

New reticules are square and flat.

Hand-painted lace is a late novelty.

Plain velvet cloaks will again be worn.

Colored street wraps are again fashionable.

Undressed kid gloves retain their popularity.

Large and small bonnets are equally fashionable.

Chemisetts and inside kerchiefs are again in vogue.

Many walking costumes are made with a jacket bodice.

Fichus of all sizes and in every imaginable share are worn.

Tiger and leopard velvets are handsome trimming novelties.

Large rosettes of Breton and poit d'esprit laces are worn.

There is no absolute rule about any detail of the toilets this season.

Flowers are as much for garnitures of evening dresses as ever.

Cream-colored silk net, polka dotted and washable, is sold for neck scarfs.

Both very light colored and very dark costumes as those with set figures.

Opera cloaks of white toile sanglier (boar's cloth), bid fair to be very fasionable.

The corsage bouquet of the passing moment is one or several large red Turc satin roses.

White felt and plush hats and bonnets continue to be favorite opera and theatre chapeaux.

As many fabrics and accessories now enter into a bonnet as into the most elaborate dresses.

Lambrequin paniers and tabliers must be very ample and carefully draped to look well.

The tendency of the coiffure at the moment is towards classic simplicity and old Greek ideas.

The large directoire bow of Breton or point d'esprit lace is the neatest Parisian fancy in neck wear.

Medium and dark shades of kid gloves will be more worn for full dress than for many seasons past.

Singapore silk is the new name for a soft silk in rich cashmere colors and designs, used for millinery purposes.

Spencers of colored velvet with lace elbow sleeves, will be worn with white skirts for evening dress by young ladies.

Some foreign fashion journals say that dresses with but one skirt will certainly be worn this winter in heavy materials.

Turc satin is the new name for that soft changeable, twilled, yet lustrous fabric, known sometimes as satin de Lyons.

Lambrequin drapery with panier and tablier combined, is the favorite arrangement for Parisian toilets of ceremony.

Two and three bands of narrow ribbon are worn around the waves of banded hair that are worn with the Greek coil at present.

Corsages opening low in front, in shawl or heart shape, or square a la pompadour, are fashionable for women of all ages.

White moutonne, a soft lamb's wool cloth, is used for dressy or evening or reception jackets for young girls, with Oriental trimmings.

A novelty in evening dress fabrics is white toils sanglier, or boar's cloth, a heavy all-wool material, dotted in raised fine points.

Pale dauphin gray and mastic shades of shades of chinchilla and beaver cloth, plain and ribbed, are again used for jackets, dolmans, visites and sacques.

New kid gloves show deep garnet or ruby shades, seal brown, navy blue, blue gray, olive, invisible green, and all the mastic and old gold tones of color.

The crowns of some plush bonnets seem to be composed entirely of jet beads, the embroidery actually covering completely the lace on which the design is wrought.

A Discovery Worthy of Consikeration.

A French Catholic priest believes he has discovered the exact spot in the Red Sea where the army of Pharaoh was overwhelmed in its pursuit of the Children of Israel. In all seriousness he has made an appeal to the Christian world for the funds necessary to carry on the excavations by which "the relics of the army overcome by the Almighty himself" may be brought to light. The sum needed he estimates at $60,000, and if this can be raised the good priest will undertake the work, "because the finding of the remains of Pharaoh's army would be a powerful reason in favor of the truth of the Holy Scriptures.—Ex.

The colored voters of Virginia, judging from recent accounts, voted as they did to better secure an acknowledgment of those rights which federal laws have failed to guarantee; they are as loyal Republicans as ever. Just nominate Grant, Sherman or Blaine next year and they'll wheel in line with wonderful unanimity.

In several parts of Wisconsin at the recent election there were women candidates for superintendents of schools and one was elected. The Janesville "Gazette" says there is a growing opinion that they would make efficient officers. A lady was recently highly recommended for vice-principal in New York city; they not infrequently serve as school officials in New England and yet the matter is pooh-poohed here.

Hon. George W. Williams, recently elected to the Ohio Legislature, was educated for the Ohio ministry, and did preach (so we are told) for a number of years. A few years ago he started a paper in Washington called the "Plain Dealer." It was considered most too plain in defending the Liberal movement.—"Pro. American."

Not a bit of it. Mr. Williams was editor of the "Commoner" and it was of the stalwart kind.

Just as we thought, there are parishes in Louisiana in which freedom of speech is not yet allowed. Mr. Kennedy was not allowed to speak at Waterproof week before last. He was so informed by the Mayor, who belongs to that race which was persecuted last year at Manhattan Beach, and the year before at Saratoga.

J. W. Cromwell, Esq., in his address at the G. U. O. of O. F., banquet in Washington, D. C., on the 15th of October, made favorable mention of the Order of the Knights of Wise Men. We doff our hat to Brother Cromwell, we are grateful, and we are proud to say that the District of Columbia will be on our roll before the falling of many frosts.—"Knights of Wise Men."

But the G. U. O. of O. F., has nothing to fear if it will take "time by the forelock;" otherwise it will—yet our regard for the noble order forbids us from adding further.

In order that the editor of the "N. C. Republican" can speak more intelligently as to what we said of North Carolina, we mail a copy of the ADVOCATE issue of Nov. 1 containing the article of which he complained. If he can find any cause therein for complaint we will be glad to know it and in what it consists. We rather opine that he will regret his gratuitous remarks about self-appointed, self-constituted, &c. unless he has any intention to do that which he apparently thinks us guilty of—that is, wilful misrepresentation.

We have much to be thankful for: prosperity has again fully dawned upon us, making our valleys vocal with the hum of industries, our hillsides laden with plenty, our ports crowded with ships bearing our produce and products to all quarters of the world emptying in our laps in return tokens of wealth; War has not sprinkled our door posts with the blood of our offspring slain. Famine has not whitened our cheeks. The Hand of Providence has blessed us. "He has not dealt so with any people." "Let give thanks and praise His name?"

The oration of Stanley Matthews at the unveiling of the statue of Gen. George H. Thomas was a most masterly effort, both in its analysis of the character of that eminent soldier and its denunciation of the doctrine of state rights. In the latter respect it was as stalwart as possible leaving not single spot upon which state rights can stand. It was heartily cheered througout. We predict that this oration will be widely read and commented upon, both North and South, in the future as well as now.

In our issue of Nov. 8 there is an extract from the Indianapolis "Democrat" including and commenting on an article on the defunct Freedman's Bank taken from the Indianapolis "Leader." This, the Washingson correspondent of the N. C. "Republican," we are informed, treats as original with us and "indignates" accordingly. This is the same gentleman who made the mistake of attempting to palm off as original some lines of poetry, written before he was born, by a Scotch poet.

The action of the Democracy in Maine in attempting to set aside the will of the people in their choice of legislators tallies with their action in certain Southern States. Northern Republicans who could not be made to believe of the inablushing frauds by which certain Democratic candidates not elected were inducted in office, have an excellent opportunity of seeing the same game attempted in Maine. They will be less credulous hereafter.

We have the Societies of the Army of the Cumberland, of the Tennessee and of the Potomac, composed of officers who fought for their country in the war of the Rebellion. They are not partisan or political in their effect, mainly social, and yet they have contributed not a little to the vindication of the cause for which their members fought. The monuments erected here to the memories of Gens. Thomas and McPherson were the gifts of such societies to the general government. The colored soldier cannot join this associations for just as he was receiving commissions the war closed, and left him where he entered it. Now if the initiative to the honoring of such soldiers as Rawlins, McPherson and "Pap" Thomas came from such societies certainly the memory of the colored soldier is safe only in the same way. Let the colored soldiers and sailors of the late war come together without further delay and form a permanent organization. "The Negro soldier in the rebellion" needs yet to be exhibited in bronze in the public parks of the National Capital as a monument to the memory of his valor and intrepidity. Gentlemen, start the ball rolling! Meet where you will, North or South loyal the people of this land will give you God speed!

A MOST REMARKABLE LITERARY COINCIDENCE.

J. E. BRUCE VS. THE "ETTRICK SHEPHERD."

Nov. 17, 1879.

EDITOR OF THE ADVOCATE.

The lines written by J. E. Bruce on the death of a young lady were taken from a "dirge" published in Blackwood's Magazine nearly thirty years ago. They were recited by Mr. Hogg (generally called the Shepherd) at one of the Noctes, and are worth publishing entire in any paper. The "Noctes Ambrosianæ" were afterwards publised in four volumes and contain much choice reading. The "dirge" will, I think, be found in the second volume. NOCTES.

The lines referred to by our correspondent appeared in the Argus of last week as follows:

WEEP NOT FOR HER.

Lines suggested on the death of the late Miss Fannie Bradford.

BY J. E. BRUCE.

Weep not for her! she is an angel now,
And treads the sapphire floors of Paradise
All darkness wiped from her refulgent brow.
Sin, sorrow, suffering banished from her eyes
Victorious over death to her appears
The vista'd joys of heaven's eternal years
Weep not for her!

Weep not for her! Her memory is the shrine
Of pleasant thoughts soft as the scent of flowers,
Calm as a windless eve, the sun's decline.
Sweet as the song of birds among the bowers
Rich as a rainbow with its hues of light
Pure as the moonlight of an Autumn night,
Weep not for her.

Weep not for her, O! there is no cause of wo,
But rather nerve the spirit that it walk
Unthinking o'er the thorny path below,
And from earth's few fleet swerving years have flown.
She'll meet thee at Heaven's gate—and lead thee on.
Weep not for her!

We accordingly bestirred ourselves, and after some labor found the desired book and in volume 2 of NOCTES Ambrosianæ found the following:

A DIRGE.

Weep not for her! Oh, she was far too fair,
Too pure to dwell on this guilt-tainted earth!
The sinless glory, and the golden air
Of Zion, seem'd to claim her from her birth:
A spirit wander'd from its native zone,
Which, soon discovering, took her for its own.
Weep not for her!

Weep not for her! Her span was like the sky
Whose thousand stars shine beautiful and bright;
Like flowers that know not what it is to die;
Like long-tinted, shadeless months of Polar light;
Like music floating o'er a waveless lake,
While Echo answers from the flowery brake:
Weep not for her!

Weep not for her! She died in early youth,
Ere Hope had lost its rich romantic hues;
When human bosoms seem'd the homes of truth,
And earth still gleam'd with beauty's radiant dews.
Her summer-prime waned not to days that freeze;
Her wine of life was run not to the lees:
Weep not for here!

Weep not for her! By fleet or slow decay,
It never griev'd her bosom's core to mark
The playmates of her childhood wane away,
Her prospects wither, or her hopes grow dark;
Translated by her God, with spirit shriven,
She pass'd as 'twere in smiles from earth to Heaven!
Weep not for her!

Weep not for her! It was not hers to feel
The miseries that corrode amassing years,
'Gainst dreams of baffled bliss the heart to steel
To wander sad down Age's vale of tears,
As whirl the withered leaves from Friendship's tree
And on earth's wintry wold, alone to be.
Weep not for her!

Weep not for her! She is an angel now,
And treats the sapphire floors of Paradise,
All darkness wiped from her refulgent brow,
Sin, sorrow, suffering, banish'd from her eyes;
Victorious over death, to her appear
The vistad joys of Heaven's eternal:
Weep not for her!

Weep not for her! Her memory is the shrine
Of pleasant thoughts, soft as the scent of flowers,
Calm as on windless eve the sun's decline,
Sweet as the song of birds among the bowers,
Rich as the rainbow with its hues of light,
Pure as the moonshine of an autumn night:
Weep not for her!

Weep not for her! There is no cause for woe:
But rather nerve the spirit, that it walk
Unshrinking o'er the thorny paths below,
And from earth's low defilements keep thee back:
So, when a few fleet severing years have flown,
She'll meet thee at Heaven's gate—and lead thee on:
Weep not for her!

PHILADELPHIA NOTES

BY HOWARD.

On Wednesday, October 29, after singing by the choir and speaking by Rev. F. P. Main and Mr. Horace Evans at the Central Presbyterian church, Mr. Thomas Davis presented a very valuable gold-handle ebony cane to Robert Gurley, Sr., with a few very appropriate remarks. Mr. Gurley replied in a very affecting manner, after which the audience repaired to the refreshment room and enjoyed themselves for about an hour. The sum of money realized was $76.

The Old Reliable Club gave their 3d annual ball at Musical Fund Hall, Thursday Octobor 30th. The master of ceremonies was William H. Furney; floor manager, Joseph Sheaf, assistants, Isaac Judah, William Fennet, George Benson, Charles Miller and William Teagle; the officers are, president, Thos. J. Smith, first vice-president, Robert Johnson, second vice president, I L. Cooper, recording secretary, William Allen, corresponding secretary, Peter A. Holman, treasurer, A. W. Bettencourt, marshall, Philip Brown. The hall was well filled and the ball was a grand success.

W. D. Jones, under the auspices of the Civic Social, opened his 3d annual Soiree Dansantee at Natatorium Hall, Thursday night, October 31. The main feature of the evening was the presentation of a lava-stone scarf-pin to Mr. Jones by Miss Winnifred Lucas, representing Mr. Jone's lady friends. The school is a grand success and was crowded with the elite of our city. The officers are, president, Daniel Nies; vice-president, Thomas Fisher; secretary, Isaac Fisher: assistant secretary, Abram Robinson: treasurer, Jerry Guin. Of the Social Committee there are six: I. Fisher, A. Robinson, A. W. Collins, T. Fisher, I. Griffin and E. Gumby.

The members of Zion Wesley church aid association held an eight day's Festival at the above named church, which commenced Wednesday evening, October 29, and closed November 6th. The special object was to raise funds to assist in paying the pastor's back salary. The church was filled to repletion each night, and now Brother Stevens rejoices in having all his money in his own pocket.

On Thursday night, the 5th, there was a lecture at Hurst-street A. M. E. church, by Rev. C. A. Johnson, subject: "Reply to Mr. Bob Ingersoll's Theory." Mr. Johnson spoke about fifteen minutes. We do not wish to use any disparaging remarks, but we think Mr. J. could have chosen a subject upon which he was better qualified to lecture than the one he begun but did not know how to finish.

At the Philddelphia Institute, Lombard above 7th staeet, the ladies of the Olive Fence committee gave a grand cake walk and promenade festival in aid of the said committee. It was well attended.

Cherry-street Baptist church, which is still in debt about $4,000, had a handsome present of $2,000 given to it by a gentleman who did not wish his name mentioned. The church should now be able to clear the remainder of the debt, and stand among the churches free of debt—thanks to the Unknown!

The Republican clubs of the 24th and 27th wards of West Philadelphia gave a grand ball on the 6th. It was pretty good with the exception of the admission of a man who was the worse for the use of bad whiskey and who created quite a sensation by wishing to clear the hall; he was promptly ejected and all passed along fair. Good for West Philadelphia!

Last week as your correspondent was going around gathering odds and ends, he dropped in the Workingmen's Club, and he dropped out very quickly, for he was met at the door of the reading room by that pragmatic son of Ham, R. J. Holland, who, without asking his business, informed him that his room was of more importance than his person, and being very sensitive he left very hastily. On mentioning the above fact to other members, R. J. H. was heartily condemned, and we now have free use of the club rooms without thanks to R. J. Holland.

At the 3d annual Anniversary of the Historical and Literary Association of Bethel A. M. E. church, the exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. L. F. Coppin. Among those who did their share were H. L. Crawford, J. M. Burrel, P. M. Laws, S. A. Smith, J. F. Ramsey, Mrs. J. S. Streets, Mrs. M. F. Hill and Miss C. Graham. Miss F. M Jackson closed with a few well chosen remarks.

The Pensylvania Equal Rights Club gave their 4th Soiree Dansantee at Odd Fellow's Hall on Monday last; it was very fine, and the club deserves credit for its careful selection of guests.

Lombard-street Presbyterian Sunday school give their annual concert on Thanksgiving night, the 27, at the church, Lombard below Ninth-street. The committee promise a very nice concert.

Dr. Piron, after a sojourn of some seven months, returned from Paris on Thursday, the 6th instant. He was entertained at the residence of Mr. William H. Dorsey, on Tuesday the 11th. He He returned to Hayti on Thursday, the 13th. The Doctor is the author of some very fine paintings.

The Thomas Monument.

[From the New York Tribune.]

Artists pronounce it the finest specimen of the sculptor's handiwork in Washington. To the chance observer it tells a more thrilling story. High above the crowd, almost flush with the house tops, one sees in the attitude and expression that the old hero has just ridden to a summit where he over-looks the battle going on below. In the face and position of the rider are written self-possession and confidence, while from the open mouth of the horse one almost hears the neigh of mixed terror and defiance.

The statue stands on a pedestal of granite, in horizontal section of elliptical shape, about sixteen feet in height, on which there are bronze tablets representing the badge of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland, partly surrounded by a wreath of laurel. General Thomas is represented as having suddenly checked his horse on the summit of a slight acclivity to make an observation, and he sits with loosened rein and hat off surveying the field with searching eye. The horse looks abroad with head raised high in the air, swelling neck and chest, and fore feet firmly planted on a strip of rock. His mane and up lifted tail are tossed by the wind, and one of his hind feet on the slope is placed before the other. Rider and steed are erect and eager at the first view and full of the glow caused by the quick ride up. The horse is especially good anatomically, and has careful veining.

The face of General Thomas is expressive, and the head well modelled; the intent expression, as he looks with firmly compressed jaw and with that intense interest which imparts earnestness to the entire figure, is well rendered.

The whole work is about fifteen feet in height from the ground on which the animal stands to the top of his rider's head, nearly on a level with which his own rises. The figures are about twice life-size. The color of the bronze is clear, light brown, almost the natural color of the alloy.

The contract for the statue was made with Mr. J. Q. A. Ward nearly six years since by a committee of the Army of the Cumberland, the price to be paid being $40,000. About six months ago he completed a design in plaster and sent it to the foundry of Messrs. Bureau Brothers & Heaton, of Philadelphia, who received $10,000 for their labor.

The entire weight of the statue is about 7,500 pounds, the horse and rider weighing 5,800 and the base 2,200. The sight selected for the statue is the spot where the salute of 800 guns was fired on April 3, 1865, in honor of the fall of Petersburg and the capture of Richmond, and one week later another salute of 500 guns in honor of the surrender of General Lee's army. The statue faces south, the line of vision being directly toward Arlington, the home of General Lee.

Humbugged again.

I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months use of the Bitters my wife was cured and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging. —H. T., St. Paul.

—A Grand bazaar will be given by Salem Baptist Sunday School cor 10th, and Cedar sts n. w., Thanksgiving evening. As the proceeds are for the purchase of books and other articles for the school it should be liberally supported.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Ev'gs,

December 1, 2 and 3, 1879,

To aid in paying for the

New St Luke's . E. Church, of this City.

The leading characters will be taken by the following artists, several of whom have made enviable reputations in their respective roles, and the strength of the company has been materially augmented by the addition of other artists justly celebrated for their excellence.

MISS LENA M. MILLER,
MISS MATTIE L. LAWRENCE, (first appearance)
MISS SALLIE WALL " "
MR. R. W. TOMPKINS,
MR. J. WM. COLE,
MR. C. C. McKINNEY, JR.,
MR. W. T. BENJAMIN,
MR. C. A. FLEETWOOD.

The Chorus has been selected with the utmost care from the best voices of St. Augustine, St. Luke's, the Fifteenth Street Presbyterian, and other churches, and will compare favorably with the best.

In order to make each night as attractive as possible, and at the same time demonstate the versatility of the artists,

The character of

JOSEPHINE,

Sustained by

MISS MILLER

the first night, will be assumed by

MISS LAWRENCE

the second night.

MISS WALL AS HEBE

Will doubtless make for herself a reputation as an Artist of rare excellence.

SATURDAY, November 22, 1879.

JEROME A. JOHNSON News Editor.

LOCAL.

☞We call the attention of our correspondents and others to the notice at the head of our columns giving the days on which articles for publication should reach this office.

Chew Jackson's Best Sweet Navy Tobacco.

—Societies and Churches desiring local notices of their entertainments and other special exercises in order to ensure the same should send complimentary tickets.

—The statement is made (officially) that Wm. T. Given, 1104 12th street is selling those splendid "Nickle" segars, all long Havana filler, at 4 cents each. They are all the rage. See his advertisement.

☞We will keep a standing notice of the time of the services of such churches as give us the necessary written information.☜

—The church choir Pinafore concert on the 1st, 2d, and 3rd, of next month, at Lincoln Hall, for the benefit of St. Luke's church, promises to be highly entertaining, and well worthy the patronage of the public, and especially the episcopalians of the district. Tickets are being sold very rapidly.

—Don't forget the Anniversary Supper, at Berean church, Thanksgiving evening.

—Bishop Wayman passed through this city last Wednesday, en route to Parkersburg, W. Va.

—Our friend Jas. Kennedy candidate for secretary of State Louisiana on the Republican ticket, was "bull-dozed" at Waterproof Tensas Parish last week, and not allowed to speak. Waterproof was the birthplace of Satan.

—Mrs. Dr. A. T. Augusta, Mrs. Hattie Smith and Miss Teagle are the ladies to whom thanks are due for the success of the tableaux Monday and Tuesday nights.

—Mr. J. B. Smith of Troy, N. Y., was entertained by the Ira Aldridge Association on Monday Nov. 10.

BILIOUS DISORDERS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, COSTIVENESS, Dyspepsia, &c., are speedily removed by Dr. Jayne's Sanative Pills. Forty years use has proved them superior to all other remedies for the cure of the various diseases for which they are recommended. In their action they are mild and certain, and may be taken at any time without risk from exposure.

—The parlors of Mr. and Mrs Menard were well filled on the 14th inst., with the young ladies and gentlemen of the Literary Social connected with the Presbyterian Church. The exercises consisted of instrumental music by Miss Lulie Frances, reading by Mr. John Carter, a quartette, "Genevieve" by Messrs. Scott, Crawford, Butler and Williams. Special mention must be made of the admirable style with which Messrs. Crawford and Peters delivered their declamations. The trio by Misses Menard, Page and Frances was heartily encored by all present. The exercises were of the highest order, and reflect great credit upon the members of the association.

W. R. STEWART, President.

—Henry E. Baker, Esq., after a month's vacation at his sunny home in Columbus, Miss. has returned looking refreshed and greatly benefited by his lenghtly trip. We hope that his finely cultivated suit of whiskers that marked the change on his face will not be a "barrier" in the way of his calling on many who will be pleased to see him.

☞—The appointment of Jere Haralson as an Inspector of Customs at Baltimore vice Dr. H. J. Brown removed is justly meeting with dissatisfaction in that city.

—Mr. Thomas Bollin a graduate of Bates College Maine is in the city, He comes here highly recommended as a man of good character and habits. He is desirious of obtaining some suitable position. He is orginally from Lexington, Va.

—Would like to call attention of readers to advertisement in another column of Thos. Miller, who is agent for the enlarging of family pictures to any size desired. We can endorse the work knowing from experience that it is all that is claimed for it; satisfactory work and cheap price. Send your number to him, he will call at your house, and receive your order.

A World of Good.

One of the most popular medicines now before the American public, is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other Bitters as it is not a whiskey drink. It is more like the old fashion bone set tea that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right try Hop Bitters.—Nunda News.

To Vindex.

MR. EDITOR,—For cool impudence commends us to Vindex the "occasional" correspondent to the Lousianian, who more than he filled the columns of that paper last Spring with society twaddle from this city, which was as low toned as it was untrue and insane and silly as it was cowardly, and yet this is the creature who charges you in the last issue of that paper with occasionally allowing your columns to be filled with local society notices to the exclusion of sound editorial mtter. Suppose you try and edit a paper Mr. Vindex. The field is large, may be you cold give us the ideal newspaper. Nothing settles the nonsense of a man quicker than to see how it is himself.

Yours for truth,

AJAX.

A Week of Prayer

was observed by the Young Men's Christian Association in a series of meetings held in the different churches. At the 15th, st. Presbyterian Monday night; Berean, Tuesday; 19th. st. Baptist, Wednesday. Israel C. M. E. Thurday and at Georgetown the last night. This Association is taking greater hold among our young men and women.

Union Bethel Church.

The following named gentlemen were elected to serve as trustees of Union Bethel A. M. E. Church Monday Nov. 3rd, 1879. Wm. Beckett, Thos. H. Wright, H. W. Freeman, W. L. Freeman, John A. Simms, Geo. R. Dolly, H. Wigginton, S. Payne and L. Anderson, and Rev. G. W. Brodie, Pastor. In accordance with a time-honored custom these officials repaired to the residence of the G. R. Dolley 13th st, bet M and N sts, where a rich repast was served by the five last named gentlemen, (the members of the Board). After discussing the vainds and the topics of the day, Mr. Thos. H. Wright was called upon and in a well timed extemporaneous effort in which he alluded pleasantly to the past and present members composing the Board of Trustees of Union Bethel Church, delighted his auditors with a "resume" of the past and future of the church. His remarks were frequently applauded. Mr. W. L. Freeman was also called upon and made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion. The board then adjourned well pleased with this social and intellectual treat.

THE EXODUS NOT ENDORSED.

AN APPEAL FOR WILLIAM C. CHASE

Never was the Israel church so crowded as it was on Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Fitzhugh took a new departure. He laid aside the Bible and begun thus: The time has already come in the history of the Negro of this country, that they must lay by the shouts until victory had been achieved. I must, said he, close the Bible and proceed with the international review. Instead then, the ministry must refute the strictures of the majority, made upon the Negroes. He was compelled by multifications to acknowledge a few. Whenever the white man feels the power of the Negro they are immediately choked. He referred to Langston and Douglass. And when young men of this race attempt to rise, they put their foot upon them. There is a brainless mass, without any proper conception of the dangerous work beiog done by them, standing with shackles in their hands to chain down Chase and the coming young men of the Negro race. In the name of God, he appealed to unloose Chase! let him go!

Of the Exodus, he being a southern man, he opposed the folly of such, and would speak from experienc. He very strongly opposed the Exodus movement and showed conclusively why it should not be. Solomon G. Brown was introduced and spoke in his usual logical manner. The exercises concluded with a beautiful hymn by the choir, entitled "We shall sit and sing ourselves away."

A HEARER.

Library of Universal Knowledge.

Volume two of this very excellent, and from an economical point of view, extraordinary work is out. Its 736 neatly printed and well bound pages contain a wealth of knowledge, covered by the alphabet between the words Arundel and Biron, such as, it is safe to say, was never before procurable for the trifling sum of 50 cents! The 20 vols. complete, containing over 40,000 distinct articles, and nearly as many more incidentally mentioned subjects, with complete index, are sufficient of themselves to afford a liberal education to any one of limited resources. They are finding their way into the hands of hundreds of thousands of those whose love of knowledge has exceeded their power to buy it at the great prices charged for Cyclopedias heretofore published in this country, none of which equal this in the amount of matter given. Volume three will be ready in a few days, and the remaining volumes will appear about two each month thereafter. The publishers will send a specimen volume, which may be returned if not wanted, to any part of the United States, for the price, in cloth, 50 cents, half morocco, 75 cents' or on extra fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $1.00. Their catalogue of standard publications will be sent free on request. American Book Exchange, Publishers, 55 Beekman street, New York.

China Wedding.

On Tuesday evening last, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lavalette celebrated their china wedding at their residence, corner of Ninth and H-sts., n. e. At 8 o'clock the parlors were filled with the friends of the family, when the bride and groom of twenty years ago made their appearance, and if the human mind can conceive of past beauty by present appearances with the same accuracy that it can reason from cause back to the effect, we have no hesitancy in saying that the many speculations as to the beauty, vivacity and wit of those who now appeared before us, was not only sufficient to make the beaux and belles of twenty years ago envy the good fortune of the successful parties, but we will venture the assertion that there were many disappointments on both sides, and some, we guess, thought that life had no further charms for them—yet there were two happy souls, who, in the flush of man- and woman-hood, stood at the marital altar, and in their simple modesty, earnestly pledged and consecrated heir future lives to each other; vowing to live each for the other, and both for God; and through all the changes and trials of twenty long years those vows, solemnly made, have been as faithfully kept.

The fellow employes in the specification room at the Government printing office, of Mr. L., presented him, through the following gentlemen, a handsome tea-set of forty-eight pieces: Messrs. J. S. Gerly, M. S. Littlefield, A. Webb, and J. F. Maupin. Mr. Gerly, in behalf of the printers, made a neat little speech at the presentation, and Mr. L. accepted the present with becoming modesty, and simply said that the surprise was highly appreciated, and that he wanted them to accept the heart felt thanks of himself and wife.

Among the other presents we shall only have space to name a few of them: Mr. Thomas and lady, pair of cake baskets and two pitchers: Katie C. Lewis, a china card receiver; Mr. Buckerman, a pair of pickle dishes; Etta B. Moses, half dozen cups and saucers; John R. Calvin and lady, six tea-drip plates; John Hickman and lady, a teapot; Mary M. Fletcher, cake plate; Maria Fletcher, a pitcher; Mrs. Warren, a gravy bowl and plate; J. J. Jackson, pair cups and saucers; Mr. Hamson and lady, six cups and saucers; J. C. Ladner and lady, pair vases; James A. Perry, pair side dishes; Jeremiah Baldwin and lady, pair pickle dishes; Annie Baldwin, mustache coffee cup; Mr. Lucas and lady, cup, saucer and mug; Geo. Gainer and lady, pair pitchers; Mr. Gray and lady, pair pickle dishes; Miss Harriet Stevenson, a pair of vases and match case. The presents were numerous and costly. At nine o'clock the company repaired to the dining room, where they partook of the viands which were prepared by an artistic hand. After music and dancing, each wended his way homeward, asking who will be the next to live twenty years married?

—Don't forget the concert to be given at Hillsdale, Nov. 25.

—The Howard University Law School has opened this year in a building accessible from all parts of the city, at 509 7th st, n. w., opposite the Post Office. It is open to both sexes and all races. Instruction will be given by Profs. R. T. Greener, R. B. Warden and R. D. Mussey. 4t.

—A VERY DESIRABLE FRONT ROOM situated on the second story, with an eastern exposure can be rented, already furnished, to two gentlemen. As this is located on one of the finest streets in the northwestern section of our city and in a house in which there are no children, it has a combination of advantages which those desiring them should not fail to notice. 4t.

THE COMFORT CORSET.

For Ladies.—A Skirt and Stocking Supporter.

In this remarkable invention, which is having such an unprecedented sale throughout the country, we offer the ladies a garment which we claim is the absolute perfection of comfort and beauty.

This Corset has a socket adjustment for the shoulders, so nicely contrived and fitted that it cannot by any means slip up on the neck or down on the arm; it has also a balance strap for sustaining the stockings. By these inventions the whole burden of the clothes is transferred to that part of the shoulder best adapted to sustain their weight; supporting everything without the least inconvenience, and almost without the wearer's consciousness, realizing the name we give to the garment—making it in very truth a Comfort Corset.

In the place of bones we insert continuous rows of very stiff cord, which give all the support of bones, with the advantage of yielding to every movement of the form, and of being washed without changing the fitness of the garment. Stylish and tasty as a French Corset, yet combining ease and comfort with elegance and shape, our corset has the unqualified approval of every physician that has seen it.

DIRECTIONS FOR MEASUREMENT FOR THE LADIES' COMFORT CORSET.

For the waist measure, draw the tape tight around the waist over the dress, and deduct two inches for thickness of clothes.

For the shoulder measure, also taken over the dress, pass the tape around the shoulders (as shown in the illustration), draw moderately, not tight, and make no deduction.

SIZES of the Ladies' Comfort Corset in stock as follows:

Waist.	Shoulder.	Waist.	Shoulder.
18	34..36	26	38..40..42..44
20	34..36..38..40	28	40..42..44..46
22	34..36..38..40	30	42..44..46..48
24	36..38..40..42

Making 26 different sizes.—It is made of the finest Satteen, white and drab. Samples by mail for the Ladies' Comfort Corset, $2.50 each.—Persons in ordering Comfort Corsets will please be particular to send both the waist and shoulder measure, taken according to the above directions.
